Ok so I was scraping company pages from crunch base.

And the API has tight security.

So I just fetched the page, and that worked.

I found the trick was actually to just use plain old node-fetch, instead of got-scraping, which is wild.

Then just

Copy to Clipboard
    const $ = cheerio.load(html);
    // get # ng-state

    const ngState = $("#ng-state").html();

    const json = JSON.parse(ngState);
    return json;
```

Full code:

Copy to Clipboard
import * as cheerio from "cheerio";
import fetch from "node-fetch";
import {
  getSmartProxyAgent,
} from "../utils.js";

export async function scrapeCrunchbasePage(url, retries = 0) { try { const res = await fetch(url, {

```
      agent: getSmartProxyAgent(), headers: {
        "User-Agent":

So recently I got blocked while trying to scrape Realtor.ca

I had been scraping them for months with no problems.

They used Imperva, which is super hard (I thought) to crack.

I accidentally found a hack that fixed my problem in 2 seconds (took me 3 hours to stumble upon it)

Thanks so much for taking this course!

I know there is a lot, but I wanted to give you absolutely everything I wish I knew when I started.

If I was to give a TLDR of the course I would recommend the sections:

My process for scraping any site

How to set up proxies

They can't hide anything from you... (watch 1 video, Realtor, Beacons or IG are my favorite ☺)

For More Tuts visit https://tutflix.org/

With that, you should be able to scrape pretty much any site on the internet!

Watch the full intro here: https://www.loom.com/share/0c8b4196357b4f4488aa9f6f6434babe

So it's a private repo, so email me your github username and I'll give you access.

I'm doing it manually, so I apologize if I can't get to it right away.

If anyone knows a better way to do this, please let me know 😊
